WILSON WANTS LABOR TO CLASH WITH HUNS

PRESIDENT WANTS OF PEACEMEN STRIKES

St. Paul Convention Cautioned
Against Danger of Industrial Disturbances

By International News Service.
Washington, June 11.—Soldiers warning that "the war can be lost in America as well as on the fields of France," was voiced by President Wilson today in a telegram to the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, now in session at St. Paul.

The President again urged that no labor difficulties be permitted to interrupt war work.
"Any ill-considered or unjust interference of effectual labor of the country," he said, "will give added strength to the President's telegram. No controversy between capital and labor should be offered to interrupt the production of the armaments, and the government has set up instruments wholly fair and adequate."

The text of the telegram, which was addressed to Robert Maitel, was as follows:
"The American Alliance for Labor and Democracy has my earnest hope for a successful convention that will give added strength to the President's telegram. No controversy between capital and labor should be offered to interrupt the production of the armaments, and the government has set up instruments wholly fair and adequate."

The war can be lost in America as well as on the fields of France, and ill-considered or unjust interference of effectual labor of the country may make it impossible to win it. No controversy between capital and labor should be offered to interrupt the production of the armaments, and the government has set up instruments wholly fair and adequate."

and this day to avoid such interruptions of industry whenever they can be avoided without the actual sacrifice of essential needs upon the workplace as imperatively as upon the workman.

No man can afford to do anything at any time but at this time justice is of the essence of the situation.

FREDERICK H. PRINCE AND HIS WIFE HOME FROM WAR SERVICE IN FRANCE

Frederick H. Prince and his wife, who have just returned from France, where Adjutant Prince has been a flier in the Lafayette Escadrille. Mrs. Prince has been a nurse in a French hospital. Both are eager to devote their energies now in service for the United States.

Frederick H. Prince, no longer, because of eye trouble, a member of the famous Lafayette Escadrille, is home from France, but by no means out of the war. All his energies will be devoted to the aid of the United States Government, he declares, in its mighty struggle, and he offers his experience and technical knowledge as his further contribution to the cause, now that further active participation in the combat is impossible.

Adjutant Prince, who is a brother of the late Norman Prince, killed in France about a year ago, returned to France today from Boston, to which city he came by train from New York. With him was his attractive bride, formerly Elizabeth Harding, the daughter of W. J. G. Harding of Washington, D. C.

Like her husband, Mrs. Prince has a creditable war record. She has been a nurse in a French hospital, and although she had been accustomed to severe regiment, willingly endured the hardships of the war to aid the wounded soldiers.

GOY ON HER SERVICES.
Mrs. Prince said that the discipline and unselfishness of the French hospitals, though unobtainable in a time of crisis like the present, "got on her nerves." Nevertheless, she remained bravely at her task until she was discharged.

BRITISH DROP 14 TONS OF Bombs ON Hun Channel Bases

By International News Service.
London, June 11.—Fourteen tons of bombs were dropped by British airmen on Sunday in raids over Zeebrugge, Bruges, Ghent, St. Denis-Western, Ostend and Malin, the Admiralty reported today. In all ten raids were made and three and explosions occurred. All the raiders returned safely.

MAJ. E. B. COLE LEADS MARINES TO VICTORY

By International News Service.
Washington, June 11.—Additional gains by American forces in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, resulting in enemy losses of men and material, are noted in General Pershing's communique today, which says: "Northwest of Chateau Thierry our troops, co-operating with the French, again improved their positions and inflicted upon the enemy losses in killed, prisoners and materials. There was a moderate artillery activity in the Woevre and on the Marne front. Our patrols crossed the Marne and successfully reconnoitred hostile positions."

Chief developments in the war today included these points:

1. The French recaptured Mery, one of the three villages west of Reims-sur-Matz, on the Noyon-Montdidier front, which the Germans took yesterday.
2. The Germans forced the French on the centre to the Aronde River at one point, but the French countered so savagely that they hurled the Huns back. The Aronde lies from two to four miles south of the Matz and empties into the Oise one and one-half miles north of the Compiegne. The point at which the Huns reached the Aronde before the French threw them back was not mentioned in the Paris statement.
3. On the French right the Germans gained. The French lines now lie west and south of Ribecourt, which is on the Oise River, about eight miles north of Compiegne.
4. Latest reports emphasize the terrific cost to the Huns in men. Field correspondents estimate that about 60,000 Germans have been slaughtered in mass attacks.
5. The British in Picardy scored a half-mile gain on a one and one-half mile front and took 300 prisoners south of Morlancourt, which is fourteen miles northeast of Amiens.

MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY IN AN AUTOMOBILE

New York, June 11.—Charles Martelli is dying in New York Hospital from a pistol wound in the abdomen, as a result of a mysterious shooting in an automobile at Hual and Riverside streets. Charles de Melia, shot in the left arm, is held as a witness, as is Joseph de Melia, a chauffeur. Another man, said to be the Captain, escaped.

READVILLE CAR SHOP STRIKE CALLED OFF

The 1,468 employees of the New Haven Railroad car shops at Readville returned to work after a brief strike, upon receiving word from Director-General Mead of United States railroads that their grievances would be looked into by the government within a fortnight if they would avoid drastic action for that length of time.

The men ask for a readjustment of the new wage scale, claiming that it is unfair because it gives the blacksmiths, machinists and boilermakers increases of 10 and 15 cents, while others receive increases of only 1 to 25 cents an hour.

The force at the shops includes blacksmiths, machinists, boiler-makers, polisher, carpenters, upholsterers and painters.

The men had a meeting and when the telegram was read from Director-General Mead, they voted unanimously to postpone further action for two weeks.

Taft Says America Must Re-establish Eastern Front

By International News Service. Washington, June 11.—"We must establish an eastern front by going into Russia," declared former President William Howard Taft at Delaware College, in a patriotic address delivered at the commencement. His conclusion was:

"The eastern front has been lost through the treachery of Germany. They say to establish an eastern front would be a great task, but there is no task that is too great for the United States."

Mr. Taft paid a glowing tribute to the valor of the English and French at the Marne, declaring they accomplished results believed impossible. "We have to whip the Germans," he said, "and we have got to whip them right—not only the German military party, but the German people."

"We have more money and more munitions and we can and will furnish more man power than any other country in the world, for the purpose of winning the world of this serpent of militarism."

"CASSED" CHAUFFEUR APPEARS IN COURT

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 11.—Anthony Andon, who asserted he acted as chauffeur for General Pershing and had driven the American general along the French lines for several months, was arraigned in the Adams street court, Brooklyn, on a charge of reckless driving. Andon exhibited an honorable discharge from the army. He claimed it was because of poor eyesight, due to gas attacks.

CHARGES MOONEY WAS EMPLOYED BY GERMANS

San Francisco, June 11.—District Attorney Fisker filed a brief with Governor Stephens, charging that Thomas J. Mooney, imprisoned parole bond defendant, was in the employ of the German Government.

National and Local Meat Business

The meat business of the country is conducted by various agencies—

By small slaughter-houses in villages—

By local Abattoirs or small Packing Houses in towns—

both

Using only a part of the local live stock supply and Furnishing only a part of the local demand for meat.

These slaughtering and distributing agencies fill a well defined but necessarily restricted place in the distribution of the products of live stock.

But only packers like Swift & Company, organized on a national scale, are able to undertake the service that is more vitally important, involving

An Obligation to the Producer

TROCO

The Successor to Butter

Made from the White Meat of Coconuts

Churned with Pasteurized Milk

Insist on Troco

If You Enjoy Good Butter

WHEN you give your order for Troco ask for it by name—not simply for "nut butter" or "nut margarine." For the flavor of Troco is achieved by an exclusive process, which gives the true creamy butter flavor. Other products can't give you Troco quality.

Troco is made by an exclusive process from vegetable fat—the dairy fat extracted from the white meat of coconuts, which is churned with pasteurized milk.

It is the national successor to butter—the gilt-edged creamery kind. For only the finest butter made has the pure sweet flavor of Troco.

Like butter, Troco is energy food of the highest value, equally digestible and easily assimilated. And being the de luxe product for table use it naturally takes first place for cooking.

And remember—Troco contains no animal oils of any kind whatsoever, nor any preservatives.

Troco is made only from fine vegetable fat and pasteurized milk by a company which makes no animal oil products. Old laws, made before Troco was invented, require the name "oleomargarine" on the label.

Your dealer can get Troco for you on short notice—we fill orders promptly. Insist on Troco if you enjoy fine butter—it solves your butter problems. Your dealer will give you a capsule of the same vegetable cooking butter makers use.

DUKE SUNSHINE FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT

Secured $1,125 from South End Woman and Then Married Her

Duke Myer, better known as "Duke Sunshine," was found guilty by a jury in the Superior Criminal Court before Judge Keating of the late Duke Myer, who was charged with the theft of $1,125 from Miss Hattie J. Ayer of the South End.

Myer won the affections of Miss Ayer and an engagement to marry followed. He convinced her that it was best that the wedding ceremony should be performed in New York city, and on June 22, 1917, they went to the South station to take a train for that point.

It was the money of Miss Ayer which Myer had secured by the theft of the $1,125, and at Myer's suggestion she secured the balance of her funds, amounting to $1,125, to him for safe keeping.

Myer secured himself for three minutes on pretense that he had a business matter to look after, and then was the last Miss Ayer saw of him until he was married in New York and brought back to Boston.

"Sunshine" succeeded in obtaining the $1,125 from Miss Ayer, and then married a woman other than Miss Ayer.

These things may be easily handled. It may not be necessary now to endure such a loss. There may be no need for a woman's heart to be broken by a man's deceit.

It is safe to say it is better to have a small loss than a large one. It is better to have a small loss than a large one.

GEORGE WOOD GETS THE GOWN FOR PRACTICE

Postponement Meets With Approval—Wood Pleased With Later Date

Navy Day has been postponed until Saturday, June 23.

Orders went out today from Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, Commandant of the First Naval District, which moved the date of the big celebration in the Charles River basin a week later than the day originally selected.

The postponement was made necessary for two reasons.

With German U-boats lurking off the American coast, the entire personnel of the First Naval District is being ordered to keep the sea.

More Time for Practice

The other reason is said by Admiral Wood to be that the weather is so hot that it is only fair to say that the men should have ample time to practice.

It is thought it is only fair to say that the men should have ample time to practice.

Boston Women Adopt Service Gown to Help Win War

By MARIE DUNBAR.

THERE'S a new war service gown just out. This dress has been designed by patriotic Boston women and approved by the Junior League and Vincent Club.

The purpose of the debut of this wartime custom is to save wool—each dress will be the means of sending just such more wool to the front.

The Junior model, which has been endorsed by the Junior League and the Vincent Club, is also made in the surplus effect. The waist is a short surplice bodice with long ends which lie in the back.

Aside from saving wool, the Boston women have designed this war service gown to give women engaged in war service work time that might otherwise be wasted in seeking a serviceable and attractive costume for general wear.

The following is "a word of praise" for the dress. The undersigned, realizing the patriotic necessity of conserving wool, agree to wear and encourage styles that do not waste materials and to substitute other materials for wool as far as possible.

This pledge has been signed and the wartime dress approved by the following Boston women: Miss Margaret Webb, president of the Junior League; Miss Elizabeth Bennett, president of the Vincent Club; Mrs. Samuel Myster, Mrs. Horace Binney, Mrs. James Lawrence, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. Barrett Wood, Mrs. S. Wood, chairman of the National Civic Federation; Mrs. H. P. Nawn, Mrs. J. Randolph Colledge, Jr., Mrs. J. Howard Edwards, Mrs. L. B. Bortwell, Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Miss Eleanor Manning, Mrs. Milton J. Roseman, Mrs. Zena have had some trouble in getting their hands ready for the work.

The war service dress and a number of other dresses suitable for war work are on display at the Pool Patis Cottage on the Common.

Aside from saving wool, the Boston women have designed this war service gown to give women engaged in war service work time that might otherwise be wasted in seeking a serviceable and attractive costume for general wear.

The following is "a word of praise" for the dress. The undersigned, realizing the patriotic necessity of conserving wool, agree to wear and encourage styles that do not waste materials and to substitute other materials for wool as far as possible.

This pledge has been signed and the wartime dress approved by the following Boston women: Miss Margaret Webb, president of the Junior League; Miss Elizabeth Bennett, president of the Vincent Club; Mrs. Samuel Myster, Mrs. Horace Binney, Mrs. James Lawrence, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. Barrett Wood, Mrs. S. Wood, chairman of the National Civic Federation; Mrs. H. P. Nawn, Mrs. J. Randolph Colledge, Jr., Mrs. J. Howard Edwards, Mrs. L. B. Bortwell, Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Miss Eleanor Manning, Mrs. Milton J. Roseman, Mrs. Zena have had some trouble in getting their hands ready for the work.

The war service dress and a number of other dresses suitable for war work are on display at the Pool Patis Cottage on the Common.

REJOICES OVER GOOD WORK OF MARINES

Sergeant Payne Praises Fighting Qualities of "Soldiers of the Sea"

"These Marine Corps boys are right there when it comes to victory. They'll wipe Fritz off the map before they get through. They're rather fight than eat. Give 'em half a chance and they won't stop until they hit Berlin."

These and similar sentiments were voiced today by Sergeant W. E. Payne, recruiting officer of the U. S. Marine Corps on the Common.

Payne was present over the national day of the Marine Corps on the Common.

"The Marine Corps has never lost a flag and never suffered a defeat. It is the oldest organization and has fought more battles than any other military or naval unit in the United States," he declared.

"The Marines have certainly given a good account of themselves in the recent fighting around Tientsin. But you couldn't expect them to do anything different, knowing their history, could you?" said Sergeant Payne.

CONCORD CHILD HIT BY

AUTOMOBILE MAY DIE
Concord, June 11.—Catherine Burke, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke of Lexington road, this town, is in a dangerous condition at the Danvers Hospital with a fractured skull, as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by Warren J. Scriver of 123 Water street, Haverhill, on the highway near her home. Scriver was not held by police.

IDENTIFY MAN WHO

JUMPED OFF BRIDGE
The police have failed to find any trace of the man who committed suicide by jumping off the Quincy Point bridge into the water yesterday afternoon, but have succeeded in identifying him as David McKee, forty-one years old, and who lived at No. 24 Chestnut street, Quincy. He was identified by the papers that were found in his coat when he laid on the bridge before he jumped off.

COMMISSIONS FOR REJECTED CANDIDATES

By WILLIAM FLYNN.
Camp Devens, June 11.—Seven of the candidates at the Third Officers' Training Camp who failed to be recommended for commission in either the artillery or the infantry are to be commissioned in the Quartermaster Corps. A. A. Four of these men are candidates in the Fourth Officers' Training Camp, but are expected to resign from the camp as soon as they receive their commissions.

There are more than nine hundred candidates in the Fourth Officers' Training Camp at the present time but this number is gradually being reduced by the elimination of those men who are not recommended by their organizations and by the resignation of some of them. It was said today that more will probably be recommended by their organizations than will resign.

On the average the caliber of the men in the Fourth Officers' Training Camp compares favorably with that of the successful candidates of the third camp, but there are a few men of exceptional ability in the present organization. The life of the camp is much the same as in the previous training camps. The men and their wives are already making names for themselves. "The Chief" is the title of a parody written in the music of a popular song that is making a big hit with the men in the training camp. It is one of the best songs of the kind that have been turned out in this connection.

One in the fact that practically all of the majors and captains in the infantry regiments of the division are attending the class in field drill on the combat range at Still River this week. The contemplated extended hikes of most of the units have been postponed until the course is finished. It was said today that the view of the vigorous training necessary for the new men is being maintained. The new men are being assigned to the Depot Brigade were expected to reach here today to take up their new duties. These officers are said to be in regular army men, scheduled for promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the new division.

EDITORIAL

The announcement from Washington that in the future officers' training camps will only be held at five replacement camps in the country is a sad blow to many men at Camp Devens who purposely refrained from applying for admission to the Fourth Officers' Training Camp. These men did not like the idea of going through the stiff training program required of all officer candidates during the last summer months and would have preferred to spend the winter of getting into a fifth camp, which they felt certainly would be started at Devens in the Fall. Many of these men thereby lost their opportunity to become commissioned officers, and they have only themselves to blame. Men who are always looking for something soft in the army do not make good officers, and if a man is unwilling to go out and take his medicine with the rest, under any condition, he is not justified in seeking advancement in the military service.

TWO MORE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHAPLAINS

According to War News, Dr. Baker has allotted two more chaplains to the Christian Science denomination. By the latest committee on publication of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this connection, Captain J. H. Coleman of the appointment of the Adjutant-General of the division, Major E. C. Pratt of Baltimore and Louis J. Dullos of New York. The examination and review of the committee, Mr. Dullos is in charge as a member of the Christian Science War Relief and Casualty Committee. They will be examined in the fall. It is expected that they will be recommended and assigned to duty without returning to the States.

GETS DOLLAR BACK.

GIVES IT TO RED CROSS
Milled, June 11.—When a party of eleven from Natick had adjusted officers with a dollar in a Chinese restaurant here, after Chief of Police Jeremiah D. Cane had been called in to arbitrate, they gave a dollar to the Red Cross. The victim claimed that they had been overcharged a dollar. When the money was returned by the policeman, it was given to the Red Cross.

NAVY SUPPORT FOR ANTI-VICE CRUSADE

By S. HARRY FERRIS.
Aboard the Destroying Ship at Boston, June 11.—The anti-vice crusade that it is announced is to be undertaken on behalf of the soldiers and sailors in Boston will have the full active support of the Naval Provost Guard, that has its headquarters aboard the receiving ship.

There is no doubt, officials say, that anti-vice crusades are back, some very bad, and, although no one expects a city of the size and with such a cosmopolitan population as Boston to become a spotless town, there is a feeling that existing conditions should not be allowed to continue.

Revolting still goes on in spite of vigorous and persistent efforts that are made to suppress it. It is also quite clear that men in uniform are scouring liquor from their sources, and it is believed that certain places in the West and South lands are supplying it.

FREE MAN ACCUSED OF FALSE QUESTIONNAIRE

Henry Davis of New York, who has been out on $250 bail on the charge of falsifying his questionnaire, was discharged on the recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney David Shaw.

Attorney Shaw felt that inasmuch as the charges against Davis were merely charges of falsifying his questionnaire and also because he is in the merchant marine service, he decided to prosecute.

Davis was arrested last night by Miss Helen E. Jordan of this city, who went his bail.

MIRACLE PLAY GIVEN

FOR K. O. C. WAR FUND
"The Master's Power," a miracle play by the Rev. John J. Molloy, was successfully presented by St. B. Oats at the Park Square Theatre for the benefit of the Knights of Columbus War Fund.

The scenes of the play were laid in Macedonia and in Jerusalem. "The Master's Power" is one of the most elaborate amateur performances seen in Boston for a long time. The play itself was interspersed with songs and recitations which kept the more serious theme from becoming too serious.

These scenes as they progressed toward the climax increased in intensity and dramatic action. One of the Amazons scenes in the play is located in the temple at Jerusalem, where Caligula, the high priest, together with members of the Sanhedrin, are troubled over rumors that have come to them of the works done by the Nazarene.

The real climax of the play is vividly handled when Christ crosses the stage as surrounded by the crowd that he has not seen, but the effect of his power and personality is real, when the blind boy emerges with his sight restored.

The play was carefully staged as to costume and general stage setting. It will be repeated tonight.

WOUNDED MAYNARD MAN

IS DARTMOUTH GRADUATE
Maynard, June 11.—Francis Maynard, reported wounded in France May 21, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Flood of this place. He is a graduate of Dartmouth. He went abroad with a medical unit, which assembled at Alton, N. H., last summer.

PRACTICE DEFIES COURT; WON'T DOUBTFORM

By International News Service.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 11.—In the government's prosecution of Joseph Rutherford, successor to Pastor Russell, now dead, as head of the International Bible Students Association, and nine other defendants, who as the executive committee of the organization are accused of attempting to interfere with the draft, Jeremiah J. De Cava was placed on the witness stand.

He is a drafted man and was sent for service to Camp Upton, Mass., and assigned to the dress regiment. He refused to put on a uniform or do service of any sort, setting up his right as a conscientious objector and his membership in the Russell organization to back his claim.

REFUSES SECURITY.

His brother, Giovanni De Cava is a member of the organization, and one of the defendants now on trial. In the trial before Justice Howe, the government prosecutor asked Jeremiah De Cava if he had not received a letter from his brother, Giovanni, instructing him not to do the United States uniform and that if it was put on him by force to take it off again.

The prosecutor then offered the alleged letter of Giovanni in evidence and Justice Howe said:

"Giovanni, you are harboring a perjury when you say that you do not remember receiving such a letter when the evidence is clear that it was found on your person and all the circumstances have shown that you did. You are trying to evade the question and it is apparent to me that you are doing when you say you do not remember. You will either remember or go to jail."

De Cava, a big, sturdy built young man, grew very limp in the chair.

"I think I do remember," he said, "I do remember getting the letter."

REFUSES TO DO UNIFORM.

But, he said, "I will not put on the uniform—I will never put it on. I will not do any kind of work that was supposed to be done by the war. No, I won't even do hospital work. I won't do anything that is supposed to be done by the war. I am in the service of the law. I am in the service of the law."

The witness was still in civilian clothes when he was taken to the witness stand. He was in the witness stand when the witness announced in great excitement.

New York, June 11.—Reports of Knights of Columbus war activities at the front were brought to New York by William J. Mulligan, Supreme Director, and Rev. P. J. McGivney, supreme chaplain of the order. They returned from a three months' tour of the French fighting front during which they visited every point where units of the expeditionary forces are located.

The reports show expenditure of upwards of $2,000,000 in securing

The two officials found the American troops well fed and cared for and in fine spirits. They report friendly and efficient co-operation among the Knights of Columbus, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army and other war relief and recreation agencies.

It was announced that Lawrence O. Murray, former Comptroller of the Currency, has been appointed Deputy K. of C. Overseas Commissioner. Among others who will soon leave

STEAMSHIP CHIRIA

ABANDONED AT SEA

London, June 11.—The steamship Chiria has been abandoned at sea in a sinking condition. It was announced at Lloyd's today.

"The Board of Directors are pleased to declare an extra special payment payable October 1st, 1918, which will be in addition to the two special payments of July 1, 1918, and January 1, 1918.

"This payment will be made to all regular employees, excepting the president, on the roll as of that date and shall have served the company con-

GUARD WHEAT FROM I. W. W. INCENDIARISM

Topeka, Kas., June 11.—Two companies of farmers, each including twenty men, have been organized and have been formed in Elk County, Kas., to guard wheat stacks, the threshing machines and all other property from Industrial Workers of the World incendiarism.

Many wheat stacks were burned last year by members of the I. W. W. and there has been rumors of greater danger this year, because of activity of German agents in that organization.

This unqualified statement was made by Dr. Harry A. Garfield, Fuel Administrator, in announcing the complete program of enforced conservation that will be put into effect immediately.

Every industry that is not turning out war supplies will have to cut down on its consumption pro rata; some must either convert their facilities to war production or cease operation; every public utility will be affected; every hotel, office building, store and household will be compelled to enter upon a period of rigid economy.

THE GAMES TWINS. The Shannon twins, who are making such splendid showing with the rejuvenated Athletics, is one of the Shannon family. The other is the younger brother, Seton Hall. This one is Maurice, and his brother who is an outfielder, is called Seton Hall. The Shannon twins are good, if not better, as a hitter. The chances are that the Shannon twins will be in the Athletics for some time. The Shannon twins in baseball are rare, but once there was a pair named Ryan, who were the only twins in the major leagues. They were a Catholic college. One Ryan is in New Orleans, where he is eminent in the law, and the other is head of the St. Louis Cardinals.

THE OPEN FARM EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES

McGrady, New Head of U. S. Agency, Gives Impetus to Farm Movement

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

United States Farm Labor Agent With the appointment of Edward P. McGrady, former president of the Boston Central Labor Union, as state supervisor of the United States Employment Service, a weightier impetus has been given to the solving of the farm labor problem in these parts. McGrady has made arrangements to open additional employment agencies in all parts of the state. He has emphasized to the Department of Labor at Washington, D. C., the need of agencies where women may be employed for farm work, and it is expected that such plans will be opened. He has taken this course because of the success of the women's federal employment office at No. 123 Federal street.

Mr. McGrady will shortly get in touch with every farmer in Massachusetts and point out the advantages to be derived from utilizing the Federal employment agencies in obtaining help to work on farms. He has arranged to keep the employment office on Federal street open for the special benefit of farmers who arrive at the South Station, instead of having them journey to rural areas in search of help. The latter agency will be used for farmers who arrive at the North Station. The AMERICAN Farm labor department will be at the Canal street office.

NEED MILKERS. Many experienced milkers are wanted in Derry," said George H. Billings, who looks after this end of farm help at the Canal street office. "In North Andover a farmer wants a man here in Derry to work on his farm. This is a good opportunity. Milkmen are also wanted in Lowell, Wakefield, Weymouth and Groton."

By granting the need for farm labor in Connecticut that industrial workers in many of the large war plants have agreed to send out units of from five to ten men, so that a larger force is constantly engaged in agriculture. The plants enroll their own men, sending them to the farms when notified by the United States Employment Service when they are needed. The employers continue the wages of the men thus released, while the farmers pay the former the going wage for farm labor. This arrangement in the factory in turn contributes to food production by taking over the work of the released men.

UTILIZING ALL. From Pennsylvania comes word that every possible source of farm labor is being utilized. In addition to regular farm hands, the State will use furloughed soldiers; men placed in deferred classification in the draft for agricultural service; high school and college students; vacation workers; one-day emergency workers who, under the plan, are sent to the farms; and, as a last resort, industrial workers.

The Keystone State has an intelligent system which places every farmer in direct touch with the sources of farm labor. Each county has a county manager for agriculture, advised by a joint county committee consisting of the county directors of the local working reserve and public safety reserve; the county farm agent, county superintendent of schools, chairman of the county branch of the state public safety committee, and one or more other persons. These committees include all to a position to help mobilizing and placing farm workers.

Each county manager is familiar with local agricultural conditions. In many of the counties he is a retired farmer, in some he is the chairman of the county farm bureau. The county farm administrator is the manager in the counties. Through him all labor supply efforts are unified, and as a result the farmer is not confused by a multiplicity of help organizations and activities.

AUTO DEALERS ARE HARD HIT FOR LABOR

By C. F. DONNICKER

The labor question among the automobile dealers has resolved itself into one of complaint labor, but one of getting any labor at all for the repair shops and service department at prices which the dealer can afford to pay and operate his business. The mechanical help available now is mostly alien, because the American mechanics of fighting age are in the trenches. "These aliens will not quit, but they will hold out for wages far in excess of what was formerly paid our own men."

"If dealers are to pay five dollars an hour to the mechanic, but the public will have to pay the price," said a prominent dealer yesterday, "and as there are approximately 25,000 automobile owners in Massachusetts the burden will be a good many times as great as operating a business at a loss and when you consider the enormous expense under which a service department is operated you can see for yourself that the cost of repairs must be advanced or the dealer will have to take steps and radical ones, too, to protect themselves."

"Even if we paid these foreigners the same wages we were formerly paying, American mechanics they would be dear help, because they turn out about half as much work as the American boys did."

The same story comes from many dealers and it stands to reason that unless competent help can be obtained or some measures taken to get men at reasonable and fair wages, some radical changes must and will be made in the service departments of the various local automobile dealers.

COOKERY DEMONSTRATION AT NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE

The housewives of East Boston are invited to attend today at Trinity Neighborhood House, No. 444 Boston street, East Boston, where a public demonstration of war-time cooking will be given. Special lectures on the "uses of 'potatoes cheese'" will be given by an instructor from the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Mrs. Florence Cook is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Fight Against the Hearst Newspapers Is "All Camouflage"

An Editorial from the Albany Times-Union of June 4, 1918. The Albany Times-Union is Owned and Edited by the Hon. Martin H. Glynn, Former Governor of New York, Chosen by President Wilson to Renominate Mr. Wilson for President in the Democratic National Convention of 1916.

The conspiracy against the Hearst publications and Mr. Hearst personally affects no credit on any of the parties concerned in it. There is no patriotism, no loyalty to the Government, no fidelity to principle or even a semblance of decency in such an onslaught.

The same elements that are fighting Mr. Hearst in this underground manner have been fighting him ever since he entered the field to help bring justice from big business. Some papers that are exploiting the matter are merely house organs of big business, and every man who is taking part in the fight on Hearst is either one who is in the employ of the agents of corporate greed or is an innocent and misguided victim of such. Doubtless many good men have succumbed to the wiles and persuasiveness of the anti-Hearst propagandist, but they do not understand the motive behind the effort.

Patriotism has nothing to do with it.

Pro-German or pro-Ally cuts no figure whatever.

These thin veils are used to cover the hideousness of a conspiracy to punish Mr. Hearst for the fight of years he has been making for the people.

Every corrupting element that has hung about the lobbies of Washington and Albany is now fighting Hearst as they have fought him for years.

Every agent of big and corrupt business is fighting him.

Every highly respectable schemer that robbed the stockholders of the railroads up to the day the Government took control is in this fight against him.

Every railroad manager and director who has robbed his employees to pay out in dividends the money that should have gone to the men in better wages is in this fight against Hearst, for they regard him as their enemy. Certain papers leading the fight are the house organs of corrupt big business and war profiteers, and the tools they are using are the same men who have drawn fat retainers from big business for showing its members how far they could go in the work of plundering the public and still keep out of jail.

Every one of these enemies of the people is arrayed against Hearst and is squealing about his own loyalty and patriotism. In the case of nearly every one of them, patriotism merely means profit, and they regard politics only as it offers opportunity for plundering the people.

Hearst has been for the people, and political plunderers are against him.

Hearst is for Government ownership of public utilities, and those who have piled up fortunes financing them under private ownership are against him.

Hearst has stood for organized labor for years, and has fought its battles, and all the big moneyed men who believe that capital should organize in every possible way, but labor should not be permitted to organize at all, are fighting him and parading their patriotism as an argument.

It is true that Mr. Hearst did not want this country to go into the war if it could keep out and protect its honor and interest. There are many millions of men who felt as Mr. Hearst felt before our entrance into the struggle. But these people are standing—loyally, firmly and patriotically—with the President, while many of the early howlers for war lost their enthusiasm as soon as we got into the struggle.

In this fight on Hearst the cry of patriotism made by the howlers is only a refuge for profiteers. It is a fight on the people rather than on Hearst. It's the same old fight that has gone on for years and will go on as long as the possibility of public plunder exists and men are found to stand in the way of the plunderers.

The Brilliant Work of the U. S. Marines in France

Copyright, 1918, by the War Commerce

Every American is proud of the Marines.

In the fighting on the new battle line these gallant sea-soldiers attacked the Germans so valiantly that the foe was driven back for two miles.

Not content with that, they swept on, taking towns, and inspiring the enemy with a wholesome fear of American fighting methods.

Every arm of the service will of course fight brilliantly in this war.

But to the Marines has come the first opportunity. And they have met it in a fashion to awaken the enthusiasm not only of every American, but of the British and French fighting men as well. For many years the Marines were the policemen of our newly extended ocean frontiers.

Wherever there was trouble, there they were dispatched. They were a small corps, but trained in the school of experience, and composed of men who liked to fight and to fight hard, when the fight was made for their country.

Almost as soon as the trouble started in Hayti or in the Philippines or on any other shore where the natives plotted and executed violence against resident Americans, the Marines were on the spot. In came the cruiser or battleship to the harbor. Forth went the boats, carrying the Leathernecks to shore.

And however great was the resistance, however outnumbered was the landing party, the trouble was ended very speedily.

When we entered the great war the ranks of the Marines were instantly swelled by large numbers of volunteers.

Under Lieutenant-General Barnett, the men were swiftly and efficiently trained, and within a few months the recruits had caught the wonderful fighting spirit of the corps, and were ready for anything that might happen.

They were landed in France with the first American troops, and were among the first to be sent to the battle line.

They were in action in the first German drive at Amiens, fighting bravely side by side with their English and French allies.

Now they are in action on the Marne, and the Germans are finding to their cost how hard the Marines can fight.

It is particularly to the credit of the Marines that, though their training hitherto has been for small fights, they are able to go into the greatest battle in all history and make good in such a brilliant fashion.

Americans everywhere will be proud of the achievements of these amphibious fighting men, and no Americans will be prouder than the bluejackets who have sailed with them, or the troops of other branches of the army, who will soon have the same opportunity to distinguish themselves.

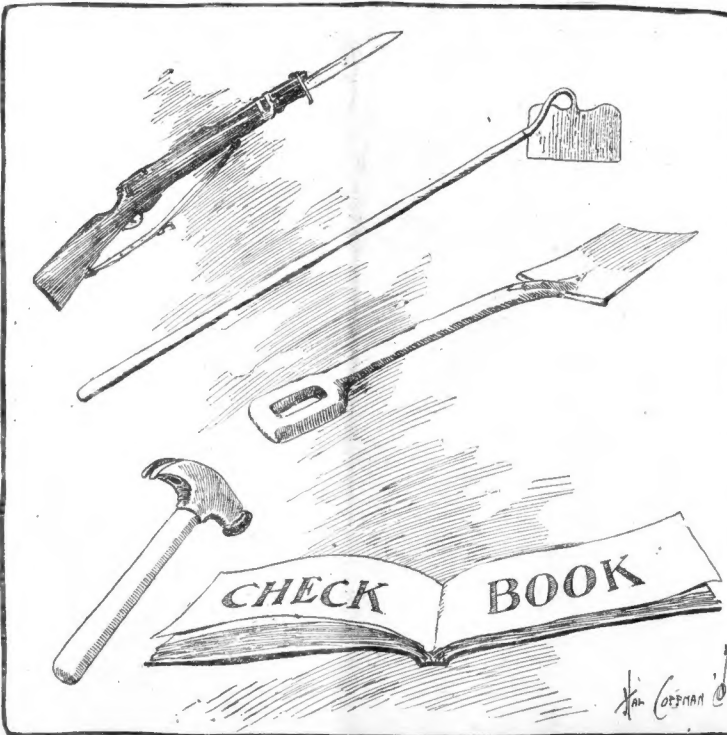

Corsetless Days

Women to Go Corsetless to Help Win the War

Above are the things that are winning the war. Are your finger-prints on any of them? If you haven't the chance to shoot—hoe, dig or hammer, or get out your checkbook.

CLOSING THE DOOR ON YOUR PAST

By Winifred Black

DEAR WINIFRED BLACK:

I wonder if there is a chance for a girl with a past? Please don't think I've been bad—but the trouble is I made a very serious mistake.

The old proverb, "Marry in haste, repent at leisure," is no doubt the truest proverb ever made. My unfortunate marriage, while made in good faith on my part, surely caused considerable excitement and comment. This man surely could not have caused more humiliation and heartaches than he did during his short time. Now, what I mean to get at is—do you think my viewpoint is right? I have dropped the matter entirely, have resumed my former duties and have blotted this affair out of my life forever.

No doubt you will understand that I am free. But I have not faith in mankind—have started all over again and am happy as a lark. Though comments are bound to be made, don't you really think I have a right to be as proud as ever with my conscience as clear as the sweet, rippling brook?

Or do you think that now, just because humiliation has befallen me, I should sink into oblivion? A comment from you on the subject, whether or not you think I'm right, will be appreciated a millionfold by MARION.

Don't Open It Again

A RIGHT to be proud? Why, of course you have. Why shouldn't you be proud of your own good sense and your own courage and your own brave, self-reliance?

You have taken the week of a life and have turned it into a success. Isn't that something to be proud of?

What do your friends want you to do—sit down in a corner and cry about it the rest of your days? Who is going to pay your board bill while you are crying, and how much better off will the world be for your absolutely useless and unnecessary tears?

It has already gone out of fashion—the old idea of crying over spilt milk. I don't admire the woman who mourns too long in these days. We pity her as a poor weak creature who lacks the courage or the self-respect to hold up her head and go on fighting her own honest way through the world for herself alone, or for her children and her friends.

Why should you be ashamed because some one else has done wrong? You didn't do anything wrong, did you? And no one who has any judgment or any experience in life, or any opinion worth having, will ever think twice of the matter again except to recognize you as a woman of character, brains and courage.

Go on, be happy, forget all that ever made you miserable. It's just a door that is closed, that's all—closed and locked, I hope, for you forever. Don't ever let any one try to shove the key in it, or even make you stop for one instant and peek through the keyhole. There is nothing but misery in that room for you.

Why should you keep the door open for one minute to please any one's absurd, old-fashioned notions? The world is full of real sorrow and real trouble. You can do a great deal to alleviate real grief. You can make yourself useful in a thousand different ways.

Go Singing Along

One of the best-loved women I ever knew passed through a terrible grief and humiliation in her middle life. She rose above it, and now whenever any one is in trouble or perplexity that woman is the one who comforts and advises and sustains them. When she goes the world will be a lonely place for the many of us who have never known the grief and humiliation that has helped to sweeten and broaden and deepen her character.

Go singing on your way, "Marion," smiling and friendly, kind and sympathetic, and the world will love you a deal which it can never pay.

DRY UP YOUR TEARS, MY LITTLE GIRL!

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

SHE is a little girl in the high school, and she has written me of some of her troubles.

She seems rather discouraged by her inability to live up to her own standard of conduct, and also by the fact that she is frequently called down by her teachers.

"I know that I am not naturally bad," she writes, "but I am always being either careless or hasty. I am always saying things which I feel sorry for afterward. I often think, how could I have said such a thing? But that is always after I have said it. I know that I would never naturally say the things I do if I had only thought a minute first. But I never can remember to do that. I would do anything in the world to be a nice, polite young lady, and I should be very thankful for a little advice from you. I have been called impertinent several times, and I did not even know that I was so."

There, little girl, don't cry! You are just running up against some of the difficulties of growing up. I know quite a bit about you, just from reading your letter. You are of a candid and impulsive disposition, and you have a little way of saying quite on the spur of the moment whatever happens to come into your head, which is one sure way of getting into trouble. Sometimes it is worth it, sometimes it isn't. Usually it isn't—if you want to keep your friends.

I am sure from what you say that you naturally prefer a calm and harmonious atmosphere to a hectic one. Therefore it would be not only the part of wisdom, but also the part of good-breeding to suppress that quick remark or comment which rises so readily to your lips. I quote Emerson to you:

"Life is not so short but there is always time for courtesy. Self-command is the main elegance. 'Keep cool and you command everybody,' said Saint-Just; and the wily old Talleyrand would still say, 'Surround, messieurs, pas de zèle.' 'Above all, gentlemen, be cool.'"

But don't abate your charming candor. If you are asked your opinion give it, frankly. You are as much entitled to your view as any one else is to his. But don't obtrude it at unreasonable times. Learn to merge your silver speech into golden silence.

You are perplexed and wounded because your teacher occasionally reprimands you when you have meant no disrespect. You will have to look at this apparent injustice in a broader way. Your individual qualities, which might delight and interest your teachers if they met you socially, would be quite out of place in the classroom.

There is not only a standard of class fellowship to be maintained, but a standard of class behavior as well. And each scholar must conform to it. If you say something thoughtlessly which sounds impertinent, although you do not have intended it so, then the same reproach must be dealt to you as to the girl who is deliberately and intentionally impertinent. In no other way can discipline and order be maintained.

The same thing applies in the business world. Two people may meet upon terms of equality on the social plane, but the moment they assume the relationship of employer and employee their attitude toward each other changes. Or two brothers may go into the army and one become a captain, while the other remains a private. As brothers they may say what they please to each other, but if the private is disrespectful or impertinent to his superior officer severe penalties will be imposed upon him for that luxury.

It is only fair for you to consider the teacher's side. She may seem to you a terrifyingly competent and learned and self-possessed, young lady, but she, too, has her own private troubles and worries. There are probably days in her life when she would rather die than present her smiling face in the classroom.
